

Construction for the city

There are building sites in every corner of the city. For those residential and business owners who are faced with building work, be it repairs, rebuilds or new builds, it is vitally important that the advice they seek is well informed.

As a leading construction company in Christchurch, Whyte Construction, is well experienced and knowledgeable about all aspects of the city's rebuild.

The team of around a hundred highly skilled employees, led by managing director David Whyte, are well versed in the processes involved and the problem solving skills which are often required.

David describes Whyte Construction as a solution based company, one which embraces the latest technologies, material and building techniques, to find the solutions required for any build in the city.

Whyte Construction has two dedicated teams working on commercial and domestic builds, rebuilds, fit outs and renovations, and prides itself on building a strong relationship with their clients.

"We have an established and credible history as Licensed Building Practitioners," says David "That's extremely important for people to know when they're selecting a builder for their project, especially at a time in Canterbury when some untested building practitioners are trying to take advantage of earthquake rebuild work."

Whyte Construction are working with a large number of over-cap level residential repairs and new builds, as the nominated builder. Their role entails co-ordinating the whole process of repair through architectural designers and engineers, including concept plans, council consents and seeing the work completed to a high standard.

David also offers very good advice for those who are electing to take a cash settlement for their property. He suggests that it is important to be very informed, especially regarding the new codes for compliance, as what sounds like a reasonable settlement value may in fact be viewed quite differently by the time a contractor looks at the project and other unforeseen problems arise.

From design and project management through to construction, Whyte Construction offers the full package and the guarantee of quality workmanship.
